

Report of the Fifty-Second Conference held at Helsinki, 1966 (The International Law Association)

The ILA's International Committees are established to undertake research and then to report on carefully mandated areas of international law in either public, private or commercial law.

Leading experts in the topics are appointed as officers of such committees. They in turn ensure that their committees' membership includes representation from around the world and benefits from a wide range of experience and expertise.

On completion of a committee's mandate (usually four years), the committee will be expected to present its final report to the Biennial Conference and a resolution to be considered by the membership present, and may then be passed on to other interested parties in the form of rules or guidelines.
